WHEN'S INSURANCE NOT A GOOD BUY?

When the rate is so low, something has to "give" and that may take the form of restrictive clauses, poor service, "hard" settlements or corners that can be cut in many places.

One policy is as good as another until you have a loss, and when you do you want good service and a prompt settlement.

That's why most people do business with a local, independent agent.

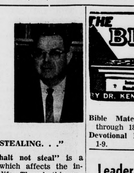
Pastor Speaks



"NO STEALING. . ."

"Thou shalt not steal" is a command which affects the interplay of life. Though this one is looked upon as of lesser importance than the other seven of the Decealogue, it is important.

Stealing has to do with property and rights as they affect our interrelations. Jesus says by comparison, "life is more than meat or clothing". But this is not to say these are unimportant.

This law deals primarily with illegal stealing and dishonesty. Whether it is done in a business deal or by a communistic or imperialistic state dishonesty and stealing is in violation of the eighth commandment and will not go unpunished. This law recognizes the sanctity of property.

Briefly speaking, there are only three ways a person can possess anything: as a free gift from another, earning it from toil or labor, and by theft-taking from another without giving value received. This command recognizes the first two and rejects the third.

Petty or grand larceny — whether property of a good name is a violation of this law. I remember several of an incident when a group of gossipers sought to destroy the good name and work of their minister. After the damage was done the leaders of the congregation held a public service to restore him to his former place of leadership. But this is not possible; for it would be like taking a pillow of feathers and releasing them to the wind from the top of a building, and then going out to try to pick all of them up again. Some violations of this command cannot be completely restored.

The simple act of taking that which belongs to another, whether in sermon, song, or service violates this law.

Political injustice, or any inactment of laws that violates this principle is wrong. Any individual or syndicate who may take undue advantage of another, or show the spirit of favoritism violates this law. The whole field of gambling, all ill-gotten gain, all unfair practices of labor or management breaks the spirit of this law.

The law holds to:

"A days wage for a days work A days work for a days wage."

Then, the larger taking the advantage of the lesser —These and many other forms of stealing comes under this law.

There are some penalties we must pay. Exodus 22 deals in detail with them. There are some penalties we must pay. There are some we can never pay. So we must join in the prayer of Jesus when he gave us the Model Prayer, "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors."

I know of no better place where we can get the forbiveness, nor the power to forgive, than in God's House on His day. Be there this week without fail. Next Week: ". . .No False Witness. . .

O. D. Moore
First Baptist Church, Hastings, Fla. (Former Pastor of Liberty Baptist)

Leaders Need Help

Lesson for July 26, 1964

Prima Donnas are hard to get along with. It's hard to be in the same house with one, hard to be on a committee or a team with one. A real original prima donna is a singer (the name means First Lady) who does soprano parts at the opera. They are notoriously temperamental. They don't like to share a scene, they want to dominate it. Now prima donnas in ordinary life are like that. They have plenty of talent, perhaps even genius. But they do not work well on a team. They are star performers and they know it. But there is a difference between a superior performer and a performer who can't forget that he is superior.

Leaders Need Help

There is a difference between prima donnas and leaders. The p.d. is admired, but that's the end of it. The boys in the school yard may admire a boy who can stand on one hand; but if they don't all try to do the same, he's not a leader. A leader is followed. Now some of the greatest mistakes in history have occurred when leaders have tried to be prima donnas, or vice versa. Hitler was a first-class prima donna; but he called himself a Leader. He seldom would listen to advice.

God's Leaders

You might think that God's leaders would not need help, but they do. Don't they have the help of God and isn't that enough? No: God's providence calls on other men to rally behind leaders. Not even God's chosen's leaders can lead without help of any kind. This is true of your local minister; where is the church that can get on without a committee or board or council or session or vestry or some group of leaders from the congregation to help the minister? It was true of Moses too. There was a man of God if ever there was one: immortal in human memory as one of the greatest leaders in all history . . . yet even he was tempted to play prima donna. Because he could do anything better than most others, he tried to do everything. Because he was a good judge, none better, he made the attempt to judge everything. Now every men has his limitations, more than he has time to work in. Even if his powers were unlimited, which they are not, he cannot do in ten hours what calls for twenty hours to do it right. Ministers have been known to suffer nervous breakdowns because they thought they did not need help; and Moses was headed for the same kind of trouble, till old Jethro gave him the advice which saved the situation.

The Humility of a Leader

Moses was one of the best educated men of his time, and immensely superior to the other Israelites. Jethro, his old father-in-law, was on the other hand, one of the most ignorant of men. He had never lived, so far as we know, outside that rocky wilderness. When he ventured to give Moses advice on how to handle the crowds that came before him from dawn to dark, demanding his decision on innumerable problems large and small, Moses did not brush him off. Moses listened: one of the humblest acts recorded of any leader in history. It was a humble thing old Jethro advised him to do, too. Appointing subordinate judges to help solve the people's problems would be, in a way, governing by committee, and we can imagine Moses had no great liking for that. But the mere admission of others (none in his class, either) to the administration of national affairs would be admitting he could not do it all. Well, even the greatest have to admit it: they are not superhuman, and though they are God's men, there are no more hours in a day for them than for any one else. The great man may accept help grudgingly, but God's leaders accept gratefully. They take helpers as God's gift and not as insult.
